

Which of these substances may be harmful if they are not removed from the body?