

Osmosis is the diffusion of water from a dilute to a more concentrated solution through a partially permeable membrane.