

Dissolved substances can move into and out of cells by diffusion and osmosis.