

..... is the process of breaking down large, insoluble molecules of food into smaller soluble ones.