

A green plant at the start of a food chain is known as the primary consumer.