

A phylum is the classification group which has the most species of organisms placed in it.