

During negative feedback, a detects a change in the internal environment.