

Mutations always result in the change in structure of a protein.