

What are used to cut out the gene of interest from a chromosome when carrying out genetic engineering?