

In genetic engineering, genes from the chromosomes can be 'cut out' and transferred into other cells