

The nervous system enables humans to react to their surroundings.