

Trying to produce as much food from your land, animals and plants as possible is known as farming.