

Organisms are well to their environment have a better chance of survival.