

Biogas, mainly methane, can be produced by fermentation of a wide range of plant products or waste material containing carbohydrates.