

During negative feedback, an brings about a response that counteracts the change, bringing levels back to normal.