

Animals that live in cold climates are likely to have large ears.