

An oil palm plantation only contains one type of species. This is an example of crop production.

