

Fuels can be made from natural products by condensation.