

The gene for fur colour in rabbits exists as two different versions: grey and white. What do we call versions of a gene like this?