

The testing of a drug on a large group of people is called a trial.