

Organisms can become extinct because of a sudden change in the environment.