

Green plants only capture a small part of the solar energy which reaches them.