

If a woman has Huntington's disease and has a heterozygous genotype and a man who does not have the condition have children, what is the probability that they have a child who has Huntington's disease?